Re: Roadbond EN 1 Product

Dear Steve,

Cornerstone Paving and Construction has just recently finished a project for the City of Bellville. The project consisted of approximately 35 city streets that included cement stabilization and then overlaying with hot mix. This project, due to utility relocates, took approximately two years to complete. Part of the contract included your product as an alternate to be used at the owners' discretion. I admit at first I was very skeptical of your product, but after using it a couple of times and seeing the results, I'm very happy. The workability of Roadbond EN 1 product is incredible.

Last year we used Roadbond EN 1 in two streets with 3% cement and on the next 4 streets, we used 6% cement without your product. There is noticeably less block cracks on the two streets where we used your product. In fact, the City of Bellville then decided to use your product and 3% cement on the rest of the project which was equivalent to approximately 75% of the total quantity of stabilization.

Roadbond EN 1 is "fool-proof" to install. We just spread the cement and add your product to the water truck. It sets up well and gives a solid surface on which to pave. The treated surface resists weather and traffic erosion and oftentimes remains unpaved for several weeks. Moreover, by reducing the amount of cement, the dust released into the air is reduced and construction time is saved by not waiting for the bulk trucks to arrive and unload.

Overall, we are well pleased with the performance of Roadbond EN 1 and would recommend its use. In addition, all of hot mix cores came back with great densities.
